Unit 1 · Daily routines · The morning habit

Many successful people say that the morning is the most important part of the day. They wake up early and follow a routine. A routine is a set of actions you do every day in the same order.

For example, some people wake up, drink water, and then do some exercise. Others prefer to sit quietly and think before they start their day. These habits help people feel ready and calm.

A good routine does not have to be long or complicated. It just needs to be consistent. When you do the same things every morning, your body and mind learn to prepare for the day ahead.

Try to notice your own morning habits. Are they helping you? If not, you can change them slowly, one small step at a time.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
routine	noun	A set of actions you do regularly in the same order	My morning routine takes 30 minutes. habit	noun	Something you do regularly, often without thinking	Reading is a good habit. consistent	adjective	Always the same; not changing	Be consistent with your practice. prepare	verb	To get ready for something	I prepare my bag the night before. prefer	verb	To like one thing more than another	I prefer tea to coffee. exercise	noun	Physical activity to keep your body healthy	Daily exercise improves your mood.
notice	verb	To see or become aware of something	Did you notice the change? complicated	adjective	Difficult to understand or do	The instructions were too complicated. successful	adjective	Achieving what you wanted to achieve	She is a successful teacher. improve	verb	To become or make something better	Practice will improve your English.
calm	adjective	Peaceful; not worried or excited	Take a deep breath and stay calm. follow	verb	To do something according to a plan or example	Follow the instructions carefully. slowly	adverb	At a low speed; not quickly	Change your habits slowly. ahead	adverb	In the future; forward in time	Plan ahead for the week. order	noun	The way things are arranged in a sequence	Do things in the right order.

Speaking prompts

Use these prompts as conversation starters. Try to use as many unit words as possible naturally.

1	Describe your own morning routine. What do you do first? What do you do last?
2	What habit would you like to improve or start? Why?
3	Do you prefer to prepare things the night before or in the morning? Explain.
4	Talk about a routine that helps you feel calm or ready for the day.

Grammar focus

Simple present for habits and routines

We use the simple present tense to talk about things we do regularly. Look at these examples from the passage: 'They wake up early', 'Others prefer to sit quietly'. Notice the verb has no change for I/you/we/they, but adds -s for he/she/it.

Examples from the passage context:

- I wake up at 7am every day.
- She follows a strict routine.
- We exercise in the morning.
- He prefers to work quietly.

Practice task:

Write 3 sentences about your own daily habits using the simple present tense.

Unit 2 · Friendship · What makes a good friend

A good friend is someone you can trust. Trust means that you believe a person will be honest with you and keep your secrets. Without trust, a friendship is not strong.

Good friends also listen to each other. When you have a problem, a real friend does not only give advice. They listen carefully and try to understand how you feel. This is called empathy.

Friendship also needs time. You cannot build a close friendship in one day. It grows slowly through shared experiences, things you do together, like eating, laughing, or helping each other.

Not all friends need to be the same as you. In fact, friends who are different from you can teach you new things and help you see the world in a new way. A good friendship makes both people feel better about life.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
trust	noun/verb	The belief that someone is honest and reliable	I trust her completely. honest	adjective	Telling the truth; not lying	Be honest with your friends. secret	noun	Information that you do not share with others	Can you keep a secret? listen	verb	To pay attention to what someone is saying	Please listen carefully. advice	noun	Suggestions about what someone should do	She gave me good advice. empathy	noun	The ability to understand how someone else feels	Good friends show empathy. shared	adjective	Done or used by two or more people together	Shared experiences build friendship. experience	noun	Something that happens to you that affects you	That was an important experience. close	adjective	Having a strong, warm relationship	We are very close friends. build	verb	To create something over time	Build good habits every day. grow	verb	To develop and become bigger or stronger	Friendships grow with time. real	adjective	Genuine; not fake or pretend	A real friend supports you. different	adjective	Not the same as something else	We are very different people. teach	verb	To help someone learn something	Friends can teach you a lot.
both	determiner	Two people or things together	Both of us enjoyed the trip.

Can for ability and possibility

In the passage, we see 'you can trust', 'you cannot build', 'friends can teach'. We use 'can' to talk about ability (what someone is able to do) or possibility. The negative form is 'cannot' or 'can't'.

Examples from the passage context:

- A good friend can keep secrets.
- You can't build trust quickly.
- Friends can teach you new things.
- I can listen for hours.

Practice task:

Write 3 sentences using 'can' or 'can't' about friendship or daily life.

Unit 3 · Food and health · Eating well

What we eat has a big effect on how we feel. When we eat healthy food, our bodies have more energy and our minds feel clearer. But eating well does not mean you have to follow a complicated diet.

The most important thing is balance. Try to eat a variety of foods, vegetables, fruit, protein, and whole grains. Avoid eating too much sugar or fast food. These foods might taste good, but they do not give your body what it needs.

Water is also very important. Many people forget to drink enough water during the day. When your body does not have enough water, you can feel tired or find it hard to concentrate.

You do not need to change everything at once. Start with small changes. Add one more vegetable to your meals. Drink one more glass of water. Small steps can lead to big results over time.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
effect	noun	A result or change caused by something	Sleep has a big effect on your mood. energy	noun	The strength to be active and do things	Exercise gives you more energy. balance	noun	Having the right amount of different things	Balance is important in life. variety	noun	Many different types of something	Eat a variety of vegetables. protein	noun	A nutrient in food that helps build your body	Eggs are a good source of protein.
avoid	verb	To stay away from something on purpose	Avoid eating too much sugar. concentrate	verb	To focus your attention on something	It's hard to concentrate when tired.
results	noun (pl.)	The outcome or effect of an action	Hard work produces good results. diet	noun	The food you regularly eat	A healthy diet includes vegetables. meals	noun (pl.)	Occasions when you eat food	I have three meals a day. lead	verb	To cause something to happen	Bad habits can lead to problems. forget	verb	To not remember to do something	Don't forget to drink water. whole	adjective	Complete; not processed or refined	Whole grains are healthier.
add	verb	To put something extra into something	Add more vegetables to your diet.
enough	determiner	As much as is needed	Make sure you sleep enough.

Use these prompts as conversation starters. Try to use as many unit words as possible naturally.

1	Describe your typical diet. Is it balanced? What could you improve?
2	What food habits do you find hard to change? Why?
3	How does what you eat affect how you feel during the day?
4	Talk about a small change you have made or want to make to your health.

Imperatives for advice and instructions

The passage uses imperative sentences to give advice: 'Try to eat a variety', 'Avoid eating too much sugar', 'Start with small changes'. Imperatives use the base form of the verb with no subject. Use 'Don't' for negative imperatives.

Examples from the passage context:

- Drink more water every day.
- Avoid processed food.
- Add vegetables to every meal.
- Don't forget to sleep well.

Practice task:

Write 4 pieces of advice for a friend who wants to eat more healthily. Use imperatives.

Unit 4 · Work and goals · Setting a goal

A goal is something you want to achieve in the future. Without a goal, it is easy to feel lost or unsure about what to do next. Goals give us direction and motivation.

The best goals are specific. Instead of saying 'I want to improve my English', say 'I want to learn 10 new words every week'. A specific goal is easier to measure, you can see if you are making progress or not.

It is also important to be realistic. A goal that is too difficult will make you feel discouraged. Start with something achievable, and then make your goals bigger as you improve.

When you reach a goal, celebrate it, even if it is small. Celebrating progress helps you stay motivated and reminds you that you are moving in the right direction. Then set a new goal and keep going.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
achieve	verb	To successfully reach a goal after effort	She achieved her dream. direction	noun	The path or purpose you are moving towards	Set goals to find direction. motivation	noun	The reason or desire to do something	What is your motivation? specific	adjective	Clear and detailed; not general	Be specific about your goals. measure	verb	To find out the size or amount of something	How do you measure success? progress	noun	Moving forward; improvement over time	Track your progress weekly. realistic	adjective	Reasonable and possible to achieve	Set realistic expectations. discouraged	adjective	Feeling less confident or motivated after difficulty	Don't feel discouraged by setbacks. achievable	adjective	Possible to do; within your ability	Start with achievable goals. celebrate	verb	To do something enjoyable to mark a success	Celebrate your small wins. remind	verb	To help someone remember something	Remind yourself why you started. reach	verb	To arrive at or accomplish something	I want to reach my target. improve	verb	To get better at something	You improve with practice. lost	adjective	Unsure of where to go or what to do	Without goals, I feel lost.
keep	verb	To continue doing something	Keep working every day.

Want to / Would like to for goals and wishes

We use 'want to' and 'would like to' to talk about our goals and desires. 'Want to' is more direct. 'Would like to' is more polite and formal. Both are followed by the infinitive (base verb).

Examples from the passage context:

- I want to improve my English.
- I would like to work abroad.
- She wants to achieve her goals.
- They would like to travel more.

Practice task:

Write 3 sentences about your personal or professional goals using 'want to' or 'would like to'.

Unit 5 · Travel and places · Why people travel

People travel for many different reasons. Some travel for fun and relaxation. Others travel to learn about different cultures or to visit family. Some people travel for work.

When you visit a new place, you experience things that are different from your normal life. You might try new food, hear a new language, or see beautiful buildings and nature. These experiences can change the way you think about the world.

Travel can also be challenging. You might get lost, miss your flight, or not understand the local language. But these challenges are also part of the experience. They teach you to be flexible and to solve problems.

You do not always need to travel far to benefit from these experiences. Even visiting a new part of your own city can feel like an adventure. The important thing is to stay curious and open to new things.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
relaxation	noun	The state of being free from stress and worry	Travel offers relaxation. culture	noun	The customs, beliefs, and arts of a group of people	I love learning about other cultures. experience	verb	To feel or live through something	Travel lets you experience new things. normal	adjective	Usual; what typically happens	This is not my normal routine. challenging	adjective	Difficult in a way that requires effort	Learning a language is challenging.
flexible	adjective	Able to change and adapt easily	You need to be flexible when travelling. solve	verb	To find an answer to a problem	How do you solve this problem? benefit	verb	To gain something useful or helpful	Everyone benefits from exercise. adventure	noun	An exciting or unusual experience	Life is an adventure. curious	adjective	Wanting to learn or know more about something	Stay curious and keep learning.
local	adjective	Relating to the area where you are	Try the local food.
miss	verb	To fail to catch or be at something	Don't miss your flight. nature	noun	The natural world; plants, animals, land	I love spending time in nature.
open	adjective	Willing to accept new ideas or experiences	Stay open to new experiences.
visit	verb	To go to a place for a period of time	I want to visit Japan.

Past simple for completed experiences

We use the past simple to talk about completed experiences. Regular verbs add -ed: 'visited', 'tried', 'learned'. Irregular verbs change form: 'went', 'saw', 'heard'. Look for the time markers: 'last year', 'yesterday', 'in 2020'.

Examples from the passage context:

- I visited a new city last summer.
- She tried local food and loved it.
- We saw beautiful mountains.
- They went to three countries in one week.

Practice task:

Write a short paragraph (4–5 sentences) about a place you visited or a new experience you had. Use the past simple.

Unit 6 · Emotions · Understanding how you feel Emotions are a natural part of life. We all feel happy, sad, angry, nervous, or excited at different times. Understanding your emotions can help you manage them better.

Sometimes we feel an emotion without knowing why. This is normal. Emotions can be connected to things that happened in the past or to worries about the future. When you feel a strong emotion, try to stop and ask yourself: what is causing this feeling?

It is important not to hide your emotions all the time. Sharing how you feel with someone you trust can help you feel lighter. Talking about your emotions also helps other people understand you better.

At the same time, try not to react too quickly when you feel a strong emotion like anger. Give yourself time to calm down before you speak or act. This can prevent many problems in your relationships.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
emotion	noun	A feeling such as happiness, sadness, or anger	Express your emotions clearly. manage	verb	To deal with something in a controlled way	Learn to manage your stress. connected	adjective	Linked or related to something else	Stress is connected to poor sleep. worry	noun/verb	A feeling of anxiety about something that might happen	Don't worry about things you can't control. strong	adjective	Powerful and intense	She felt a strong sense of pride. hide	verb	To keep something secret; not show it	Don't hide how you feel. share	verb	To tell or give something to others	Share your feelings with a friend. trust	verb	To believe someone is reliable and honest	Talk to someone you trust.
react	verb	To respond to something that happens	Try not to react too quickly. prevent	verb	To stop something bad from happening	Communication can prevent problems. cause	verb	To make something happen	What is causing this feeling?
calm	verb	To become or make less anxious or upset	Take time to calm down first. relationship	noun	A connection between two or more people	Good communication builds relationships. natural	adjective	Normal; existing without being forced	It's natural to feel nervous.
lighter	adjective	Feeling less burdened or worried	Talking made me feel lighter.

When / Before / After, time clauses

The passage uses time clauses: 'When you feel a strong emotion, try to stop', 'before you speak or act'. These clauses tell us the timing of actions. The time clause can come first or second in the sentence.

Examples from the passage context:

- When I feel nervous, I take deep breaths.
- Before you react, give yourself a moment.
- After she calmed down, she spoke clearly.
- I feel better when I share my feelings.

Practice task:

Write 3 sentences about your own emotions using 'when', 'before', or 'after'.

Unit 7 · Learning and education · How we learn best People learn in different ways. Some people learn best by reading. Others prefer to listen or to watch. And some people learn by doing, by practising something until they understand it.

Knowing how you learn best is very useful. It can help you study more effectively and feel less frustrated when something is difficult to understand.

One thing that all learners have in common is the need for repetition. When you see or hear something many times, your brain begins to remember it. This is why reviewing new information is so important.

Mistakes are also a key part of learning. When you make a mistake, your brain works hard to understand what went wrong. This process actually helps you remember more. So instead of feeling embarrassed about mistakes, try to see them as opportunities to grow.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
prefer	verb	To like one option more than another	I prefer learning by doing. practise	verb	To do something repeatedly to improve	Practise speaking every day. effectively	adverb	In a way that produces good results	Study more effectively. frustrated	adjective	Feeling upset because you cannot do something	I feel frustrated when I make mistakes. repetition	noun	The act of doing or saying something many times	Repetition helps you remember. review	verb	To look at something again to remember or check it	Review your notes after class. mistake	noun	Something done incorrectly	Everyone makes mistakes. process	noun	A series of steps that lead to a result	Learning is a slow process. embarrassed	adjective	Feeling uncomfortable because of a mistake	Don't be embarrassed by errors. opportunity	noun	A chance to do or achieve something	See mistakes as opportunities. common	adjective	Shared by many people; happening often	This is a common mistake. brain	noun	The organ in your head that controls thinking	Your brain needs rest too. remember	verb	To keep information in your mind	Repeat things to remember them. difficult	adjective	Not easy; requiring effort	Grammar can be difficult at first. grow	verb	To develop and improve over time	Mistakes help you grow.

Speaking prompts

Use these prompts as conversation starters. Try to use as many unit words as possible naturally.

1	How do you learn best, by reading, listening, or doing? Give examples.
2	Talk about a time you learned something from a mistake.
3	How do you review new information to help yourself remember it?
4	Do you feel embarrassed when you make mistakes in English? How do you deal with that?

By + -ing to explain how

We use 'by + -ing' to explain the method or way of doing something. In the passage: 'learn by doing', 'by practising something'. The -ing form comes directly after 'by'.

Examples from the passage context:

- She improved by practising every day.
- I learn by making flashcards.
- He got better by reading more.
- You can grow by accepting mistakes.

Practice task:

Write 3 sentences about how you do something, using 'by + -ing'.

Unit 8 · Money and spending · Spending wisely

Money is something most people think about every day. We earn it, spend it, and sometimes worry about not having enough. Learning to manage money well is one of the most useful skills you can have.

One simple way to manage money is to make a budget. A budget is a plan for how you will spend your money. It helps you see where your money goes and decide what is necessary and what is not.

Many people spend money on things they do not really need. This is sometimes called impulsive spending, buying something because you want it right now, not because it is useful or important.

A good habit is to wait 24 hours before buying something you want but do not need. Often, after a day, the feeling passes and you realise you do not actually want it. This small trick can save you a lot of money over time.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
earn	verb	To receive money in exchange for work	She earns a good salary. budget	noun	A plan for how to spend money	Make a monthly budget. necessary	adjective	Something you must have or do	Food is a necessary expense. impulsive	adjective	Done quickly without thinking carefully	Avoid impulsive decisions. realise	verb	To become aware of something; to understand	I realised I didn't need it. save	verb	To keep money rather than spending it	Try to save 10% of your income. useful	adjective	Helpful and practical	This is a very useful skill. trick	noun	A clever way of doing something	Here is a useful trick. passes	verb	Goes away or ends (of a feeling or time)	The feeling will pass. decide	verb	To choose one option after thinking	Decide what is important to you.
plan	noun	An organised set of ideas to achieve something	Have a plan for your money.
spend	verb	To use money to pay for things	Don't spend more than you earn. actually	adverb	In reality; in fact	I actually don't need this. simple	adjective	Easy to understand or do	Start with a simple plan.
over time	phrase	Gradually, during a long period	Small savings add up over time.

Comparative adjectives

We compare things using comparative adjectives. Short adjectives add -er: simple → simpler, useful → more useful. Long adjectives use 'more': impulsive → more impulsive. Always use 'than' when comparing two things.

Examples from the passage context:

- A budget is simpler than you think.
- This option is more useful than the other.
- She is more careful with money now.
- Saving is easier when you have a plan.

Practice task:

Write 3 sentences comparing two things related to money, habits, or daily life. Use comparative adjectives.

Unit 9 · Nature and environment · The importance of green spaces

Green spaces are areas of nature in or near cities, like parks, gardens, or forests. Research shows that spending time in green spaces is good for both your physical and mental health.

When people spend time in nature, their stress levels often decrease. The fresh air, the sounds of birds, and the sight of trees and plants help the mind relax. Some scientists believe that we have a natural connection to nature that goes back thousands of years.

Green spaces are also important for communities. They give people a place to exercise, meet others, and relax outside. Children who grow up near green spaces tend to be more active and creative.

Unfortunately, in many cities, green spaces are disappearing as more buildings are constructed. This is why it is important to protect and create more green areas, not just for nature, but for the wellbeing of the people who live there.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
research	noun	Careful study to find new information	Research shows this is effective. physical	adjective	Relating to the body	Physical activity is important. mental	adjective	Relating to the mind	Take care of your mental health. decrease	verb	To become smaller or less	Stress levels decrease in nature. connection	noun	A link or relationship between things	There is a connection between sleep and mood. community	noun	A group of people living in the same area	Parks benefit the whole community. tend to	phrase	To usually do or be something	Children tend to learn quickly. creative	adjective	Good at thinking of new ideas	Nature makes people more creative.
unfortunately	adverb	Sadly; used when something is bad	Unfortunately, many parks are closing. disappearing	verb	Going away or becoming less visible	Green spaces are disappearing. construct	verb	To build something	They constructed a new building. protect	verb	To keep something safe from harm	We must protect the environment. wellbeing	noun	A state of being happy, healthy, and comfortable	Green spaces improve wellbeing. active	adjective	Moving and doing physical activities	Stay active every day.
area	noun	A part of a place or region	This is a beautiful area.

Present continuous for ongoing changes

We use the present continuous (am/is/are + -ing) to describe things that are changing or happening right now or around now. In the passage: 'green spaces are disappearing'. This shows an ongoing trend.

Examples from the passage context:

- Green spaces are disappearing in many cities.
- The climate is changing quickly.
- More people are moving to cities.
- Technology is improving every year.

Unit 10 · Time and priorities · How we use our time

We all have the same 24 hours in a day. But some people seem to do much more with their time than others. What is their secret?

The answer is often about priorities. A priority is something that is more important than other things. When you know your priorities, you spend your time on things that matter, not on things that are just urgent but not important.

Many people spend a lot of time on things that feel busy but do not help them reach their goals. Checking your phone constantly or watching too much television are common examples.

One useful approach is to decide the three most important things you need to do each day and focus on those first. This is sometimes called the 'three big tasks' method. When you finish those, everything else feels easier. Try it for one week and notice the difference it makes.

Vocabulary

Word	Part of speech	Meaning in context	Example
priority	noun	Something more important than other things	Family is my top priority. matter	verb	To be important or significant	Focus on what truly matters. urgent	adjective	Needing immediate attention	This is urgent, do it now. constantly	adverb	All the time; without stopping	I constantly check my messages. approach	noun	A way of dealing with something	Try a different approach. focus	verb	To give your full attention to something	Focus on one task at a time. method	noun	A particular way of doing something	This method is very effective. difference	noun	A change or contrast between two things	Notice the difference it makes. seem	verb	To appear to be a certain way	She seems very organised. goal	noun	Something you want to achieve	Work towards your goals. useful	adjective	Practical and helpful	This is a useful tool. common	adjective	Happening often or found in many places	This is a very common problem.

Comparative: more ... than / less ... than

We use 'more ... than' and 'less ... than' to compare things. Multi-syllable adjectives always use 'more' or 'less': 'more important than', 'less urgent than'. This is different from short adjective comparatives (-er).

Examples from the passage context:

- Rest is more important than staying busy.
- Email is less urgent than you think.
- This method is more effective than the old one.
- Sleep matters more than most people realise.

Teacher's guide

How to use this book

Read to Speak is built around active vocabulary acquisition. Each unit introduces 15 target words through a meaningful passage, then guides learners to use those words in real conversation before marking them as learned. The word-tracking grid is the engine of this method.

The word-tracking method

The core principle is simple: a word is not learned until it has been used, not studied, not recognised, but genuinely used, at least 5 times in real conversation. The checkbox system makes this visible and motivating.

Using the passages

Read the passage aloud with learners before studying vocabulary. Ask comprehension questions about meaning and tone. Discuss the topic before introducing the word list, learners should engage with the ideas, not just the language.

Speaking prompts

These prompts are designed to be impossible to answer without using the unit vocabulary. Push learners beyond single-word answers. Model extended responses. Encourage learners to ask each other follow-up questions.

Grammar focus

Each grammar point is drawn from the passage itself, not added artificially. Show learners the point in context first. The practice task is intentionally open-ended, accept any grammatically correct response.

Review units

These appear after every 3 units. They recycle vocabulary from the previous 3 units. Do not introduce new vocabulary during review units. Use the self-assessment section for learner reflection.

For self-study learners

Self-study learners should find a conversation partner, a friend, tutor, or language exchange partner, to complete the speaking components. The word-tracking grid works perfectly for solo conversation practice with a partner.

Adapting for different learners

For stronger learners, encourage use of the vocabulary across topics, not just in direct response to the prompts. For weaker learners, allow use of the word in a simpler sentence before building up.
